I think we all feel something like a "shock" when we are presented with the new environment in which we will live in the next few months: Cesta Podhradova 11. It could be said that the facilities are not idyllic. However, the hall partners make you even want to be there. Without a doubt, the most positive aspect was finding these wonderful people, who had been there all year and welcomed me as one more.

I went to Košice to finish the pharmacy career with an experimental end-of-degree job, or "thesis" as they consider it there. And it really was a good idea. Dr. Vladimir Petrovic was my tutor, and he couldn't have behaved better. The experiment itself lasted a week, and then I always had the flexibility and help to write the document. I give my maximum thanks.

I could not leave behind my Erasmus coordinator, Mario Segurado, a person who makes you feel literally at home, he is interested in you all the time and does not limit its function to the academic field, he implies himself in you to be comfortable in this city.

Košice reminds me a charming little town, very quiet, with more life by day than by night. The main street full of terraces and beers at any time while there is light is undoubtedly its hallmark.

The excursions organized by the ESN seemed great to me, with many activities that take advantage of the natural environment that exists throughout Slovakia.

Definitely, I think it is 100% a positive and recommendable experience for any student, especially because of the people you meet there, who are the ones that make the moments unique.
